

ACADEMIC CYCLE OF SUCCESS

We are committed to create and support inclusive learning and working environments, where people of diverse backgrounds can actively and effectively engage each other.

The College of the Environment promotes student success through education, career development and self-discovery by creating various opportunities at the different stages of the following cycle of success:

The academic and personal growth of our students is our top priority. We take a holistic approach to promoting student success, by facilitating opportunities along their academic journey. We all have a share in this cycle.

---

- The academic journey begins during recruitment. Our goal is to prepare students for the academic and social life that awaits when you arrive campus. We are here to support a smooth transition to our programs.
- During college, students need to make choices to discover new opportunities. University of Washington and the College of the Environment offer different programs focused on offering a great experience.
- As students advance through their academic programs, they will be able to experience hands-on activities, field trips, interesting courses, internships, and even service-learning options. The College is committed to offer constantly exciting opportunities.
- Finally, there are multiple resources and services available to address career development and job search needs of UW students and alumni. We encourage students to build their network during their academic life and work to ensure they receive the best education.

The resources included in this page can orient students, staff, and faculty in the creation of a more supportive environment.
